tionally profitable and successful school year, and they will have many more."

Cereghino pointed out that teachers and the community are "poised and ready" for continuous dialogue between community and school.

"And poised they must be, for measurable innovation, educational excellence and professional responsibility — rather than mere talk about these goals — will best be achieved in the urban school when a closer community-staff relationship exists," he advanced.

Cereghino, born and raised in Daly City and graduated from Jefferson High School, disclosed his decision to become principal of Rio Vista High School on July 1 was designed to get the family "out in the country."

It was a "family decision," Cereghino said.

Regarded generally as a strong principal who helped to keep a once-unsettled campus population on an even, productive line, at least outwardly, this year, Cereghino had risen rapidly through the ranks at Jefferson.

He had started as a teacher at the campus from which he was graduated, and from whose baseball diamond he had jumped into the New York Yankee organization, with whom he signed in the early 1950's for a bonus figure of some $85,000.

Beginning in the business department, he was promoted 5 1/2 years later to assistant principal for instruction, then in February of 1968 to assistant principal for administration.

Cereghino was named principal of Jefferson, a school with a large minority race population last June 10.

The Cereghino plans to move "have been in the hopper for a year or two," he explained.

He had been ready to sign a contract with a small high school in Sonoma County when he was offered the Jefferson post.

He and the family decided, Cereghino recalled, to accept the Jefferson post for at least a year.

In accepting the Rio Vista post, Cereghino will be moving into an educational plant that is the same size as Jefferson — but one with about half the enrollment — only 550 pupils.

Cereghino said the superintendent has extended him a free run to experiment; that "measurable innovation" and "independent study" would be encouraged.

Jefferson District Supt. Edward Morgan, who has described Cereghino as an outstanding educator, board of trustee members and his faculty were informed of Cereghino's decision Friday.

Morgan reiterated late yesterday this often-expressed opinion of Cereghino, who replaced Ernest Ribera at Jefferson last year.

Pacifica Standoff On Poles

By DON GRIERSON

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has turned down the City of Pacifica's request for "total undergrounding" of a new high voltage power line through the city, and a company spokesman indicated Monday there is some doubt whether the new transmission line will be constructed at all.

Don Halverson, manager of the company's Daly City office, presented a proposal from the "management" of the utility company at Monday's council meeting, and indicated the undergrounding project, which would cost an estimated half million dollars, is "out of the question."

Halverson said the company would likely abandon the entire project, rather than bear the additional expense.

He reiterated the PG&E offer to underground all power lines except the three high voltage lines along the Crespi Drive, Adobe Drive and Higgins Street route "at no cost to the homeowners."

The company has also agreed to underground telephone and CATV lines along the route at PG&E's expense.

The council agreed to amend its earlier resolution demanding that the lines be undergrounded, "in light of the benefits and improved service which will result for city residents if the new transmission lines are installed."

According to Halverson, the new lines will help improve "continuity of service" in the city.

"There will be fewer blackouts and shortages if the lines are installed," he said.

The council again refused, by a 3-2 vote, to accept the PG&E proposal to install wooden poles along a portion of the route.

'Paper Capers' In The Times

"Paper Capers," an exciting new contest sponsored by The Times, is open to anyone and features creativity with Times' newspaper pages.

To play "Paper Capers," all that is required is that a contestant make something from the pages of The Times. Clear materials, such as transparent tape, glue or other clear fasteners, may be used.

Entries may be placed in five categories: (1) models, (2) clothing, (3) art objects, (4) novelties, (5) living creatures.

A daily winner in one of the five categories will be named beginning June 16 and every weekday until July 25. A daily winner will be awarded $25 in cash.

In addition, daily winners become eligible to compete for the grand prize a one-week trip for two persons to Hawaii, and the two runner-up prizes of either a weekend trip to Disneyland or a weekend trip to Las Vegas.

Names of daily winners will be published in The Times and will be posted in each of the four Times' offices in San Mateo, Redwood City, Daly City and Burlingame.

Business License Split In Pacifica

in rates is inevitable, businessmen present at the meeting stood fast in opposing the change in the system of determining the fees.

In another action Monday, the council adopted a new ordinance setting fees to be imposed for construction of high-rise buildings and "establishing an account to purchase fire fighting equipment necessary to control fire in such structures."

Conditions of the new ordinance are less stringent than those of a previous ordinance which it repeals, according to council members, and it was adopted "to encourage high-rise construction in the city."

One local contractor said that while he is opposed to "any fund-raising ordinance which applies to builders," the new ordinance "is more desirable than the one it repeals."

Latins Clash With Blacks in D. C. Row

is no reason that language should be the barrier to us that color was to you. The constitution of California was written in both Spanish and English. I applaud the movement in the black community for Swahili. And we are not going to become white, Anglo-Saxon, English-speaking Protestants. We are what we are. We are low income because we refuse to surrender what we are. Who ever thought of using language as a club to beat down people. That is what English has become."

"They're saying that everything should be written in English and Spanish on the other side," a black girl asserted. "Why not Swahili as well?"

"We are not here to fight the blacks or the whites or any one," Luis Concha of San Bruno, exclaimed. "We are here to do a job. We are trying to help people who need help."

For the first time in its history the commission had a meeting so overcrowded that extra folding chairs had to be brought into supervisors' chambers. Still, additional people were forced to stand in the foyer outside.

Bruno Cable TV Hearing Set July 7

A public hearing into the merits of a cable television system—private or municipal—for San Bruno will be held July 7, city councilmen directed Monday.

Officials set the hearing date after learning that the city attorney's staff and compiled sufficient information allowing preparation of whatever councilmen needed to initiate cable television.

Councilman George Corey said the hearings should bring out whether or not the public wants cable television and whether or not it should be municipally or privately operated.

The council also set June 2 as the date for a public hearing on the Central Business District Ordinance.

In their action, the council authorized calling for bids on the city's annual street repaving program, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $46,000.

A stretch of Crystal Springs Road, from El Camino Real to Oak Avenue, some streets in upper Mills Park five and six and other selected streets would be included in the project, the public works staff explained.

The council heard William Nagel, chairman of the Crime Prevention Committee's public relations and information unit explain that group's biggest effort will concern "getting some of the nitty-gritty work done," and getting information out to the citizens, which badge-an overcrossing at a cost of an estimated $92,000 seemed unwarranted; that, while Laguna Salada legally could help fund the project, it doesn't have any money—so formation of an assessment district likely would be required, but there were indications citizens would not approve it.

As a result, the hiring of a crossing guard seemed to be the most feasible way to proceed for the time being, Vergeer indicated.

Then, in September, he offered, the city will start traffic and safety surveys in the area.

That the school district might alter its housing: shift kindergarten through third graders to another school, was decried by one mother, Mrs. Gerald Patterson.

President of the Pacific Heights P-TA she expressed hope for something more than a crossing guard to cope with the problem.

Mrs. Patterson said she felt she and the others who wanted a pedestrian overcrossing had been "banded about" for several months.

She indicated that some 250 children would be required to cross the five-lane intersection twice daily, in addition to the crossings required in visiting their friends or attending movies.

Mrs. Patterson, obviously upset, said signals and a crossing guard would be suitable—but not just one or the other.

D.C. Girl Is Injured In Rescue

A young Daly City girl was injured Saturday in a perilous rescue operation near Mussel Rock, firemen reported.

Margarita Valdez, 14, of 125 Lisbon Street, was treated at Mary's Help Hospital for bruises and lacerations after firemen pulled her up a 300-foot cliff.

Authorities said the girl was injured and firemen were shaken up when a winch used to raise the rescue line slipped in soft earth at the top of the cliff.

One fireman and the girl were banged against the face of the cliff when the line dropped several feet.

Firemen said the girl had been walking on the beach when her access route was cut off by the rising tide.

She was trapped on the beach in an area one-quarter-mile south of Mussel Rock.

In order to reach the stranded girl, firemen had to be lowered down a sheer 125-foot drop at a "right angle."

The girl was in a "rescue har-

'Samaritan' Robs Woman In SSF

A San Francisco woman was robbed of the jewelry, money and automobile in South San Francisco Sunday by a "good Samaritan" who volunteered to drive her to the airport.

South San Francisco police said Joan Monday, 47, reported a man she met in a San Francisco bar robbed her and kicked her out of her car in front of the International Inn on Airport Boulevard.

According to police reports, the suspect offered to drive Mrs. Monday to the airport and then returned her car to her home while the two were drinking in a bar on Eddy Street.

When they reached the airport, according to the victim, and turned back toward San Francisco.

When she protested, he took her purse, ring and a small amount of cash and forced her out of the automobile.

Blaze Burns In San Bruno Room Twice

San Bruno firemen were dispatched to a Fifth Avenue residence for the second time within two days Saturday to extinguish fires in the children's room.

The second fire, which started about 4:15 p.m., caused an estimated $2,000 damage to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martin, 832 Fifth Avenue.

Authorities said the blaze was discovered by a babysitter, Roxanne Williams, 17, who was attending the children while the parents were away.

She noticed smoke coming from the closet of a bedroom where two of the Martin children were sleeping. A third child had apparently been playing.

The babysitter carried the children from the house, then telephoned authorities, firemen said.

Eighteen firemen using five pieces of equipment responded to the blaze, which was confined to the bedroom of the house.

Firemen were summoned to the residence on Friday when a fire was discovered in a bunk bed in the children's bedroom.

The earlier fire was confined to the bed and bedclothes.

Information Meeting On Transit Set

The Pacifica and Millbrae-San Bruno Jaycees will conduct a public information forum regarding the West Bay Rapid Transit Authority June 6.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the El Camino High School little theatre, 1320 Old Mission Road in South San Francisco.

Governmental Affairs Chairman of the Pacifica Jaycees, Charles R. Pasternak, will serve as moderator of the forum.

A special election, to be held on June 10 throughout San Mateo County, calls upon the voters to approve or reject a West Bay Rapid Transit Authority master plan for services on the Peninsula.

According to Jaycee officials, the Jaycees have arranged for Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, along with Lester W. Kelting of San Bruno to present their views on why the master plan should be defeated in the coming election.

Ryan has followed the WBRTA closely during the past few years and has presented criticism to the transit authority's program. In a recent newsletter to his constituents, Assemblyman Ryan expressed strong disapproval of the WBRTA's master plan.

Judge Conrad B. Reich or his representative will speak at the forum as supporters of the measure.

Judge Reich has made a number of speaking engagements calling for the county's support of the WBRTA's master plan.

Each of the two sides will have an opportunity to express their views on the West Bay Rapid Transit and the master plan. Later, the moderator will entertain questions from the floor which may be directed to either side, with an opportunity for rebuttal.

The Jaycee-sponsored forum represents neither support nor rejection of the West Bay Rapid Transit Authority itself nor the master plan which they recommend.

S.S.F. Mayor in a Plea For Camino Work Speedup

SACRAMENTO (PCNS) — Frank Bertucelli, mayor of South San Francisco appeared before the California Highway Commission Wednesday to plead for a speed up in construction plans of the El Camino Real project.

Bertucelli pointed out that the state must either implement its construction program or face an untenable traffic problem at the intersection of El Camino Real and Chestnut Avenue in South San Francisco.

He told the Commission that present plans for construction of the Westborough Expressway call for completion by the fall of 1970. This will dump another 14,000 autos per day at the already crowded intersection.

Bertucelli pointed out that the state amends its construction schedule the Expressway will be completed before El nut Avenue already handles 18,000 vehicles per day and El Camino Real another 28,000 vehicles, he said.

When you add all of the traffic into an already congested intersection, "Additionally there will have to be some duplication of construction if the projects are completed separately," Bertucelli said.

"The additional expense and the disruption of traffic during construction could also be reduced

Camino Real is ready. This, he told the commissioners, would dump all of the traffic into an already congested intersection.

Jeff Dismisses Charges Against Schoolteacher

Jefferson High School District trustees, on a three-to-two vote, dismissed pending charges against a 15-year master teacher Eugene Lipson, who had been accused of allowing the preparation and display in his classroom of posters (collages) said by school officials to be in "bad taste."

The action came quietly and as expected last week in the City Council chambers of Daly City's Civic Center.

Trustees Al Teglia of Daly City and James Cooper of Pacifica cast negative votes.

Though charges against him were dismissed, Lipson's personnel file is to carry a permanent "letter of censure" from the board, concerning the teacher's role in the creation and displaying of certain collages in the classroom under the guidance of a practice teacher.

This was approved by the board in approving a letter to Lipson.

The student teacher, according to Jefferson High School principal Edward Cereghino, has remained on the job, but under heavy supervision from officials of the San Francisco State College practice teaching program.

Recommend Transfer
Cereghino said he has recommended the practice teacher be transferred to a school outside the Jefferson district.

He noted, however, that the practice teaching program will be over for the term within a couple of weeks.

Lipson was rapped by the trustees for not being "sufficiently attentive to his responsibilities" as a master teacher.

"The board," stated the letter to Lipson "expects that master teacher to assume full responsibility for the conduct and the supervision of such a teacher. The assignment of a practice teacher in no way relieves the master teacher of the responsibility for the satisfactory progress of all classes intrusted to him."

The letter carried the information of Lipson's censure and also served as a general reminder to all teachers that the board "demands strict compliance" of the Education Code, Title V of the California Administrative Code, the Board Rules and Regulations, The General Policy Manual, the Teacher Handbook, the District Discipline Handbook, the Student Teacher Handbook and all reasonable rules and directives."

Alec Fraser, president of the Jefferson Union High School District Teachers Association, spoke toward the contents of a letter addressed to Lipson pertaining to what trustees expect of all teachers within the district.

"During the current school year, the board has received numerous complaints which can be attributed to unilateral action taken by individual teachers and/or groups of teachers, regarding the district's instructional program."

Stop Sensitivity Training
"All unapproved programs such as sensitivity training, outside speakers, pilot course, curriculum innovations, etc., are to be stopped immediately."

Fraser sought clarification of these points, which trustees and school administrators held to be self-explanatory, and urged a meeting with teachers be set up to inform them.

He said the majority of teachers would not see copies of the board's letter to Lipson.

Mrs. Jean Markovich, president of the Jefferson Council of P.T.A.s, asked that parents be included in curriculum planning decisions rather than having to come to board meetings to "complain about it afterward."

"I agree," commented Fraser, and Assistant Supt. Ernest

Ribera announced that many community leaders are working in curriculum planning with him and a teachers' unit presently.

Rifle, Ring, TV Stolen

The theft of a .22-caliber rifle, a diamond ring, a portable television set and miscellaneous items from his home was reported to Daly City police Sunday by Ronald Lowe of 386 South Hill Boulevard.

Burglars scaled a wall to an open second story window to get into the home, reports stated.

If South San Francisco continues to delay an agreement with the county for improving Westborough boulevard it will make it impossible to complete the main arterial between El Camino Real and Skyline boulevard for still another year, Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald charged at last week's board of supervisors meeting in Redwood City.

If the city would approve plans, Fitzgerald indicated, work could proceed and financing of a bridge or culvert over Colma creek could be settled later.

"Any further delay will make it impossible to complete the road this year because of winter rains," Fitzgerald said. He noted the last leg of the traffic arterial goes over Colma Creek to connect to Old Mission road, but it could be decided later if this section could be financed through an assessment district or from city funds.

"We've done everything we can, and they haven't approved anything," Supervisor Jean Fasser commented. She suggested the problem be taken up at a luncheon meeting with South San Francisco councilmen next week.

Ousted Thornton Teacher Is Suing

David J. Englund, a teacher at Thornton High School in Daly City whose contract is not being renewed for next year, filed suit in Superior Court Thursday to keep his job.

In the suit Englund denies a series of accusations filed against him by Edward Morgan, superintendent of the Jefferson Union High School District, at the time he was notified that his services would not be required in the coming year.

Joining Englund in the lawsuit is Local 1481 of the American Federation of Teachers. Named defendants are the district and its board of trustees.

The suit alleges that Morgan has no cause to dismiss Englund, despite a finding by Harold Furst, hearing officer of the state Administrative Procedure Office, that grounds existed for the dismissal. Englund asserts that he was denied due process of law because he was not provided with a copy of Furst's proposed decision. Furthermore, the petitioner states in the suit, the dismissal action is a "prejudicial abuse of discretion" because it is not supported by evidence.

Englund was denied equal protection of the laws, the suit goes on, "in that petitioner is similarly situated with other employees of the district who have not been similarly punished, and petitioner's conduct is consistent with the policies, practices and professional standards established within the district."

Another teacher involved in the case, Eugene Lipson, was to be dismissed but was let off with a reprimand and is being rehired.

Furst's decision was that Englund, while a biology, first aid and driver training teacher at the continuation high school, disobeyed school regulations in a number of respects. It alleged that he allowed non-students in classroom, failed to obtain written permission for field trips, failed to prepare a course of study or lesson plans, gave a book entitled "Hippie Papers" to a student, and permitted a "display of collages inappropriate to a classroom and having no relation to the subject matter of the classes, leaving unsupervised students in classroom during recesses, playing music during classroom hours, allowing smoking during classroom hours."

Police Raid 'Pot' Party, Three Held

Two men and a woman were arrested and "in excess" of a pound of marijuana and assorted narcotics paraphernalia were seized Thursday when Daly City police raided an apartment across the street from Civic Center.

Lt. Thomas Culey said police booked Richard Re, 21, of 401 Ninetieth Street, Daly City, on charges of possession of marijuana; Charles R. Newman, 419 Flood Avenue, San Francisco, charged with possession of marijuana and possession of a hypodermic kit, and Carol Ann Marie Bohme, 18, of 646 Duncan Street, San Francisco, charged with visiting a house where narcotics are used.

A fourth person, Re's brother, Laurence, 23, of 2025 Castro Street, San Francisco, was taken into custody when he arrived at police headquarters with the intent of bailing out brother Richard, Culey explained.

The police spokesman said Laurence Re gave the officer at the desk "a bad time" and was subsequently arrested on a $39 outstanding traffic warrant out of San Francisco.

Lieutenant Culey said a neighbor in the apartment building at 401 Ninetieth, which is just across the street from Civic Center, in which the police station is located, called in at 5:30 p.m. to report a "pot party" in progress at that address.

When officers arrived at the apartment, police reports stated, officers detected a "strong odor of marijuana."

Re, the policemen said, attempted to physically keep them out of the apartment.

Once inside, the officers found suspects Newman and Bohme sitting on the couch. They saw a water pipe "with marijuana in cup of same" on top of the television set and also found a metal hubcap containing what appeared to be marijuana seeds and stems, the police said.

The trio was arrested then on charges of being in a house where narcotics were used, and in the presence of the suspects, the policemen began searching the apartment.

In a locked metal box, assertedly belonging to Newman, who police said apparently lived there, though he gave a San Francisco address, were found hypodermic needles and a syringe, pills, four rolled marijuana cigarettes, loose marijuana and seeds.

Minority Studies Offered

Minority Studies is a new semester course offering slated for Westmoor's fall semester. Teaching the class will be Westmoor's history instructor, Alvin Wolf. Leroy Jones, who is a Negro, will be the student teacher in this class. Raised in an Oakland slum from the age of two, Jones, with the aid of people interested in him, was admitted to the University of San Francisco after his high school graduation and granted a scholarship because of his athletic abilities. This scholarship, permitting him to receive a more thorough education, gave Jones the drive to succeed in other fields of work besides athletics. Working 55 hours a week as a "plain clothes" public relations policeman for the city of San Francisco, Jones is presently at Westmoor doing his observation, preparatory to his student teaching. Jones' busy schedule also includes attending classes at San Francisco State College to attain his Masters Degree. Still finding time in his schedule, Jones has given lectures in other Westmoor classrooms. One such lecture was given to Miss Jean Ferdinandsen's second period civics class. He explained the definition of Black Power to interested students, as "the ability to implement change."

D.C. Summer School Set

Trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City approved a summer school program at Woodrow Wilson School last week, after Supt. Frank Greenwood reported a large number of parents have expressed an interest in a summer session.

Greenwood said parents of 175 students at the school have indicated they wish to enroll their children for the summer session.

The board approved the appointment of teacher John Beltrone to serve as principal of the summer school.

Greenwood Wilson was modified somewhat during the course of the current school year, and "the educational program may have suffered because of this."

"For this reason, I feel it is especially important that a summer program be made available for these students," he said.

The district reduced the size of classes in the Woodrow Wilson "cluster" program at mid-year, after teachers reported experiencing difficulties with the system.

Judge Denies Court Move

A series of motions submitted last week on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Thornton of Pacifica, who were convicted May 12 of several narcotics charges, was denied by Superior Court Judge Conrad B. Reisch.

Denied were motions by defense attorney J. Tony Serra for a new trial and judgment of acquittal notwithstanding the verdict submitted on behalf of Nancy Thornton, and a motion for release on bail pending sentencing, submitted on behalf of Thornton. No action was taken on a motion for bail pending appeal on the basis that it was made prematurely. Sentencing has been scheduled for June 3.

Thornton, 30-year-old gas station owner of 396 Heathcliff Drive, was convicted by a jury of counts of possession of a narcotic, possession for sale of a restricted dangerous drug, and receiving stolen property. Mrs. Thornton was found guilty of possession of a narcotic, and possession for sale of a restricted dangerous drug. She is free on bail pending sentencing.

Coastside Girl Is Wed in San Bruno

After a honeymoon in Las Vegas, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Feccia Jr. (Celia M. Smith) will make their home in Belmont. They exchanged marriage vows at St. Bruno's Catholic Church in San Bruno at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Celia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Smith of Moss Beach who hosted the reception at the Lazy V Restaurant in San Bruno. Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reid of Daly City.

Celia, escorted to the altar by her father, wore an Empire, floor-length gown of white linen with a standup collar and white daisy applique on the bodice. A daisy coronet secured her full-length veil which was edged in the same daisy pattern. She carried roses, stephanotis and orchids.

Floor-length gowns of pale pink linen were chosen by the attendants who included Bonnie Johnson as maid of honor and Darlene Wilson, sister of the bridegroom, and Jill Dalzel, bridesmaids. They carried pink baby roses.

Charles asked Jim Rising to be his best man, and ushers were Jack Hayes and Dick Dalzel.

Cancer Clinic Set June 7 at Jefferson

Daly City's Jefferson High School cafeteria will be converted into a medical center for a day — Saturday, June 7 — as part of the American Cancer Society's countywide test project to discover the incidence of undetected cancer among San Mateo County women.

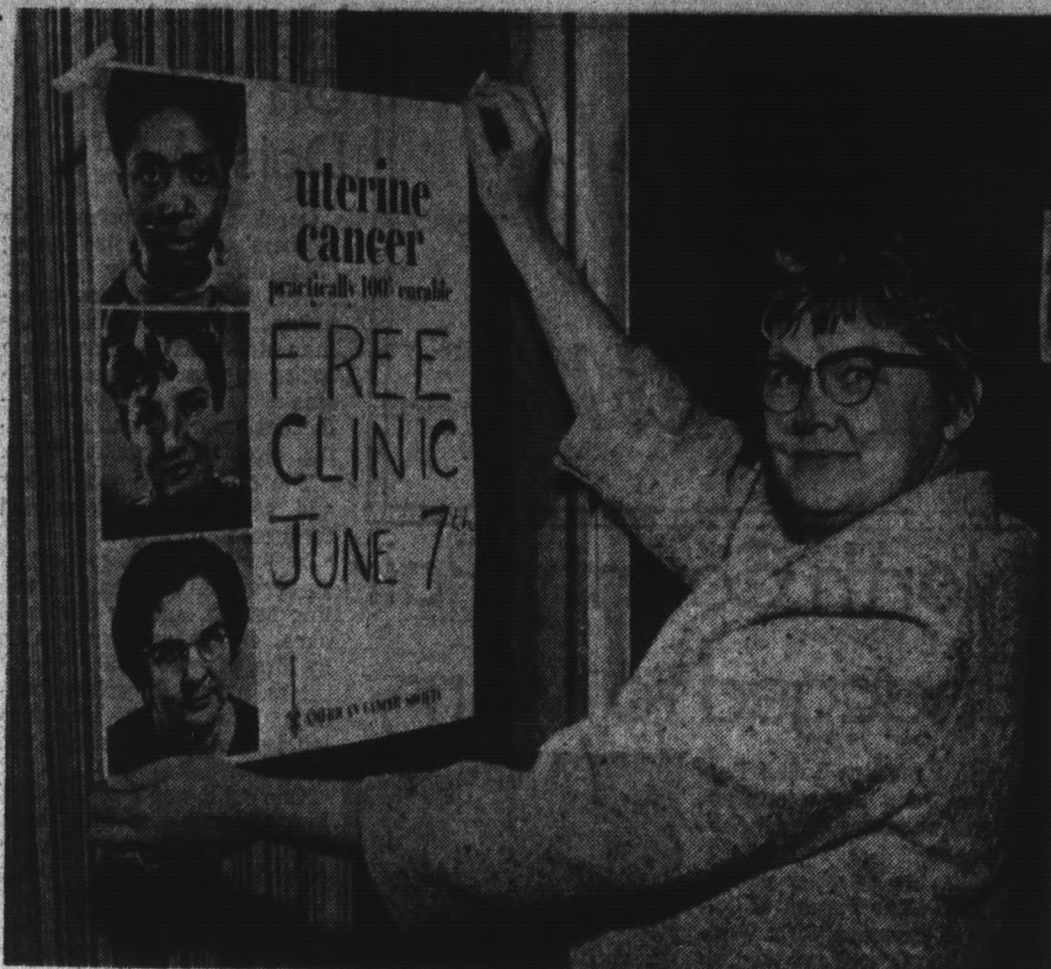

A team of volunteer physicians, nurses and social service workers will be on duty from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to perform free medical checkups, including the pap smear test, for uterine, breast and pelvic cancer.

According to Dr. Robert O. Holmes, president of the county's ACS Branch, the Daly City clinic will be the fifth in a series designed to supply statistical data about local need for cancer examination programs in addition to currently available private and public facilities.

Dr. Holmes said the free clinics are planned for women who are not under the regular care of private physicians.

"A concurrent benefit of the test clinic program," Dr. Holmes reported, "is that it serves as a reminder to all women of the lifesaving importance of visiting their own doctors every year for checkups."

The ACS president noted the "invaluable help" of the county Public Health and Welfare department for supplying equipment and materials for the clinics and of public health nurses for volunteering many off-duty hours to making personal visits to women in areas where need for medical attention is most evident to inform them about the health check-ups.

The physician volunteers for the Daly City clinic will be Dr. Harold S. Dennis and Dr. Ferdinand Gomez, who is Spanish-speaking. Dr. H. C. Bernstein will be on call in the case of an exceptionally large number of examinees. Dr. Paul E. Neagle, Chief Pathologist, Mary's Help Hospital, will make the cytology readings.

Bi-lingual nurses will also be in attendance, since the clinic is expected to draw heavily from the Spanish-speaking population of the area.

Women interested in participating in the test clinic may find out more about the importance of the "pap" smear for uterine cancer by attending a free showing of the ACS documentary film

Tea Today to Fete Laguna Salada Library Assistants

More than 225 Laguna Salada parents, serving as volunteer library assistants, have been invited to attend an "Appreciation Tea" today for their participation in the local elementary schools library program.

Mrs. Dorothy Wolff, librarian for the district, who coordinates an effective library service in all 15 schools, has planned the social event to take place at the Linda Mar School from 2 to 4 p.m.

Marion Garthwaite, well-known author, lecturer, storyteller, and instructor, will be the featured speaker. A former children's librarian with the San Mateo County Public Library System, Mrs. Garthwaite will discuss her experiences as a writer of popular books for boys and girls.

According to Mrs. Wolff, the volunteer library assistants have been involved throughout the school year in staffing the elementary school libraries in order to accommodate both teachers and students.

D.C. Offers Social Dance For Summer

Enrollment will be taken at the first class session. Instruction fee is $10 per couple or $5 for singles.

Plan to meet new friends while improving your dancing skills. For further information contact the Recreation Department at 992-5356.

Sweet Time Again

Good morning, good cooks.

On reviewing the past month's columns it appears that the dessert lovers have been neglected.

Shame. Since there is no one who loves desserts more than I, this oversight is going to be corrected right now.

A dessert that rates high in most homes is a pie. And when that pie happens to be a "made-from-scratch" chocolate pie, the rating jumps a couple of degrees.

Mrs. Sherrill Banks, who lives in Kentucky, is an excellent cook a generous recipe sharer and my sister, sent me this chocolate pie recipe, it takes a bit more time and effort than a pudding mix, but believe me the results are well worth the effort.

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

- 3 squares chocolate, unsweetened
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell

In the top of a double boiler, combine the three squares chocolate with the two and one-half cups milk, heat over hot water until the chocolate is melted, then beat with a rotary beater until blended.

Combine the one cup sugar, six tablespoons flour and the half teaspoon salt in a small bowl, add enough of the hot chocolate to make a thin paste. Blend this into the hot chocolate gradually, stirring as you add and continue to cook over hot water until thickened, stirring constantly.

Spoon some of the hot chocolate mixture into the two beaten yolks, stirring vigorously as you add. Next blend the egg yolk mixture into the thickened hot chocolate and cook over hot water for two minutes longer. Remove from boiling water, add the two tablespoons butter and the teaspoon vanilla. Cool and turn into baked pie shell. Top with meringue.

MERINGUE

- 2 egg whites
- 4 tablespoons sugar

In a medium bowl beat the egg whites until frothy throughout. Add the four tablespoons of sugar a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until the meringue peaks.

Place lightly on top of chocolate pie, being careful to spread it to the edge of the pie crust all around, this will prevent it from shrinking.

Bake in 350-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until delicately brown.

THE FIRST step to making a good pie is to bake a good pie crust. Many of us have a time with crusts since the pastry is short and has a tendency to tear when handled. One solution to this problem is to roll the dough between 2 12-inch squares of waxed paper. Place the ball of dough flat and roll with a rolling pin, from the center out, until the dough reaches the edge of the paper.

Peel off the top sheet (if the pastry tears, press it together or place a little piece of dough over the tear to mend it). Lift the bottom sheet of paper and pastry and place, with the paper side up, in an ungreased pie pan. Lift off the paper gently and ease the dough to fit the pan, flute the edges. Prick the shell and bake.

Another solution is to try this pastry recipe that requires no rolling, just press the dough into the pan. This amount makes 2 8-inch pie shells.

NO-FAIL PASTRY

- 1 1/4 cups flour
- 1/2 cups shortening
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- a pinch of baking powder
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 tablespoons milk

Sift the 1 1/4 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pinch of baking powder into a bowl. Add the eight tablespoons shortening and cut in with pastry blender. Make a well in the center and add the one beaten egg and two tablespoons milk. Mix all together and pat into pie tins. No rolling required. Bake in 425-degree oven until lightly browned, about 10 minutes.

NOTE: Be sure to press the pastry carefully where the bottom of the pan joins the sides, you don't want it to be too thick there.

I FREQUENTLY have requests for recipes from the ladies, but it is a rare honor to have a gentleman ask for a special recipe. The next dessert is in response to just such a request.

TWENTY-FOUR HOUR DESSERT

- 2 cups white cherries, canned, halved and seeded
- 2 cups diced pineapple
- 2 cups quartered marshmallows
- 2 cups orange sections, cut in half
- 1/4 cup blanched almonds, slivered
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- juice of one lemon
- 1 pint of whipping cream

Prepare the two cups each cherries, diced pineapple, quartered marshmallows (cutting up the large marshmallows is recommended because they seem to soak up the dressing better), orange sections and the 1/4 cup blanched almonds in a large bowl.

Beat the two eggs, add the two tablespoons sugar and the lemon juice. Stir in 1/4 cup of the whipping cream. Cook over water in double boiler, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool.

Whip the remaining cream and fold into the cooled egg mixture. Pour over the fruit, mix gently, but well and set in refrigerator to meld its flavors for 24 hours.

This makes a large amount, should serve 10. The recipe can be halved easily to accommodate fewer people.

Outdoor Living and Activities Call for Informal Fare, Easy Menus

The casual summer season will soon be in full swing; meals are definitely lighter, cooler, easier on the cook. Outdoor living and activities occupy most of our free time, and picnics and al fresco barbecues are the order of the day.

The beach and hillside call for informal fare, but not all outdoor entertaining need be limited to hot dogs, hamburgers, and rugged sandwiches served on paper plates or eaten out of hand.

The patio, porch or terrace lend themselves to more elaborate menus and table settings, and give scope for a large variety of cool, attractive dishes served in a gracious manner.

The easiest way to entertain in summer is buffet-fashion. Plan menus which will be the easiest on you.

Select dishes which may be prepared in advance, right down to the last bit of garnish.

Set up one or more tables on terrace or lawn to accommodate everyone, and cover the tables with gay cloths, making them practical but pretty and securing the corners in defense of a refreshing breeze.

Set the tables with colorful plates and bring out your good crystal and silver for a welcome change of outdoor-living pace.

Few convenience foods fit into both casual and formal summer dining as gracefully as canned salmon.

In addition to being colorful and highly nutritious, equally at ease in dishes hot or cold, it teams perfectly with all the wonderful summertime vegetables and even fruits. It's a quality product that is easy on the cook, easy on the pocketbook and easy on the waistline.

One of the most popular of all salmon dishes is a salmon loaf, served hot or cold and it, too, suits both casual or gracious summer dining. For elegant occasions serve it wrapped in a flaky crust.

SALMON IN CRUST

Serves 6

For the crust:

1½ cups flour (no need to sift)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water

For the filling:

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup finely chopped onions
½ green pepper, chopped
4 ounces mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 pound can salmon
5 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon salt or to taste
1 teaspoon dried dill weed or tarragon

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 egg, beaten with 1 tablespoon water
Make pastry: In mixing bowl combine flour and salt. Cut in shortening and butter or margarine until mixture is like coarse meal. With fork stir in water, one tablespoon at a time, until dough can be gathered together. Chill while making filling.

Filling and finishing: In skillet melt butter and in it sauté onion and green pepper until vegetables are tender, but not brown. Stir in mushroom stems and pieces and cook for 2 minutes longer. Empty salmon with liquid into mixing bowl. Add eggs, pepper, salt, dill or tarragon and parsley. Add vegetable mixture and mix lightly but thoroughly.

Roll out dough thinly on floured board into a 12-inch square. Pile filling on one half of the square, leaving a 1-inch margin on three sides. Fold uncovered portion of dough over filling and pinch edges of dough together firmly. Roll onto backing sheet so that seam is on bottom and reshape filling and pastry into loaf shape with hands. Brush with egg-water mixture.

Prick top at regular intervals with a fork and decorate with small cut-outs of any remaining bits of dough. Brush again with egg-water mixture. Bake in preheated 425 degrees F. oven for 30 minutes. Serve hot with a favorite sauce, such as egg, mushroom or lemon cream or cool, then chill, and serve cold with lemon mayonnaise.

Fresh Salmon Is at Peak; Canned, It's Good All Year

Edward and Lorna Bunyard, through June, for at the time they wrote their book, "The Epicures Companion," describe salmon as "that royal family of unquestioned greatness who reign over every feast of distinction where connoisseurs gather."

They were speaking, of course, of fresh salmon caught in a limited season from April

It fits logically and colorfully into any budget and into the menu for any occasion, either formal or informal, from a delicious sandwich in the picnic hamper to a charming buffet luncheon on the patio to the most enchanting of all occasions, the summertime bridal reception.

A delicate and definitely gourmet beginning to a gracious summer menu is salmon bisque. It may be prepared quickly and easily, then retired to the refrigerator to become icy cold until time to serve. It's not only one of the most delicious of all cool soups, but is without doubt the most beautiful, just as the fish itself has long been admired as the most beautiful creature of the deep.

And as a slimmer, you'll be

SALMON BISQUE

Serves 6 to 8

1 1/2 cups milk
1 10-ounce can frozen potato soup, thawed
1 cup chicken broth
2 teaspoons onion juice
1 1-pound can salmon with liquid
1 cup light cream

Fresh dill for garnish

In saucepan heat milk, potato soup, chicken broth and onion juice. Bring just to a simmer, then remove from heat and stir in salmon with liquid. Blend two cups at a time in an electric blender or force mixture through a food mill. Stir in cream and chili until very cold. Garnish with fresh dill.

Pretty as a picture, cool as an Arctic stream, and delicate as a summer breeze, this pastel pink salmon bisque is made in a matter of minutes and remains flavorful in the refrigerator until ready to serve on any summer occasion.

BARBARA BLADEN

A Book at 16

Robert Westbrook wrote his first book at age 16 and is making his first film at 23. Between years, he attended Columbia University, lived around Europe, made underground films in New York.

His search for identity is largely the theme for his latest book, "The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart" which has been bought by Martin Poll, producer of "The Lion in Winter."

He comes by his writing talent naturally, being the son of Hollywood columnist Sheila Graham. His father is Trevor Westbrook, a British aircraft manufacturer who made the Spitfire. The book deals with a young man's struggle for love and independence. And the author admits it's autobiographical enough for him to play the lead role of Stanley Sweetheart.

"Who knows him better than I," the articulate youth explained during his U.S. tour promoting the Crown publication.

HE'LL CAST IT IN AUGUST WITH UNKNOWNNS, after writing the screenplay and acting as associate producer. Leonard Horne, known as a TV director, will make his film debut as director.

"It was natural that I'd want to make films. I grew up in Beverly Hills, after my mother and father were divorced. She likes the idea of me being a writer but is apprehensive about my entering the film world."

His parents met in London, where he frequently visited his father, when Miss Graham was a war correspondent.

"Father thinks my making a film is flighty. He's not certain its respectable. It would be OK if I were to make lots of money and invest it wisely. Otherwise, he's completely out of touch with anything connected with cinema or show business."

Westbrook lives in Rome. He considers it "timeless, a marvelous place to write. Like living in the nineteenth century."

"THIS BOOK IS ABOUT PERSONAL VIOLENCE. I have five chapters on a new book dealing with social violence. Young people don't write novels anymore, it's archaic and a product of a slower, commercial society. Now they deal with instant communication, like songs and short films. They also don't have the patience to write long works."

"A novelist is someone looking for love and affection. Usually someone too inhibited in real life to get it, so he puts it down on paper. But the capital A has gone out of art. Art has become a living thing, one's dress, one's style of life."

Quincy Jones will compose the secondary score with a rock band providing the major accompaniment.

The young filmmaker has apprenticed with veterans. He served as assistant director to Sidney Lumet on "The Appointment," with Martin Poll; worked on "Vila Rides" in Spain, "The Swimmer" and "In Harm's Way" with John Wayne and Otto Preminger for six months.

When he began, he'd already published, "Journey Behind the Iron Curtain," a description of a summer vacation with classmates from the progressive Putney School in Massachusetts in youth hostels in Russia, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Poland.

"As for my acting. Well I did some summer stock but I'm not really an actor. It's just that I understand Stanley so well."

(Post City Editor)

OUR SOCIETY—A fourth grade teacher at Garden Village staged one of those "trips" . . . where all the kiddies actually pack for a plane "flight" to a land of their choice.

They, as usual, were sold only a one-way ticket; it was up to the individual tourist to figure, etc., his own way back.

Results are indicative of today's day: one "stole" a boat and paddled back (from the South Pole?), while most of the others — bless 'em, friends — put the return trip flights, etc. on "their" Master Charge and BankAmericards.

Chips off the old man's waists!

AT S.F. STATE—Progress report on new dormitories off Lake Merced Boulevard: "Looks like they'll be ready for the fall riots!"

A LETTER signed by the presidents of all the unions and various certificated and uncertificated organizations within the Jefferson High School District structure announces a testimonial dinner for retiring board of trustee member, popular Raymond Milton (June 4, Nick's, Pacifica, $7.50 a person).

A WESTMOOR High official confirmed suspicions at recent talk: Ninety percent (!) of WHS student body on drugs of one type or another; most on "pot" 'n pills; one percent on "hard stuff."

JOVIAL, THEM LAWYERS—Most attorneys give off the idea they're deadly serious day in and out. That impression was whacked aside when we attended the San Mateo County Trial Lawyers' Association recently. Mebbe not what you'd call rolling-in-the-aisles-funny, but laughter-seeking anyway. Lynn Compton, the chief prosecutor in the Los Angeles Sirhan Sirhan trial, was the speaker that evening. The lawyers' group gave him a check to cover expenses, etc. . . . but, Compton has returned all but the amount of an airplane ticket to L.A.

LATEST edition of the school newspaper at Ben Franklin School, Colma, includes a story on San Mateo's Damien House (described as a retreat for children with problems), and a parent points out that there appear to be certain no-no's for visitors, among them "excessive love making," and the dirty old lady wants to know, "Who gets to say what's 'excessive'?"

ED CEREGHINO, who'll be the "former" principal of Jeff High on June 30, notes he has spent 35 years as a member of the Daly City community but explains, "At long last, I recognize that the process of education involves not so much the sinking of roots as it does the severing of them."

He told trustees, however, that though he is "proud" of those years in the area — he graduated from Jeff High, too — "35 years in one community is much too long."

He said, "one needs a fresh start from time to time, just as one's family needs a changed milieu."

SAMUEL CHANDLER

'Most Popular' Game

WHAT GAME seems to be more popular than any other that originated in America?

Not basketball, football, or even baseball — but, poker.

The French colonists of Louisiana made poker by putting together parts of Persian, German and French games. Around 1800 it crossed the sea to England then moved to the various European nations until it reached them all — Russia included.

Poker is a game where the element of chance is subordinate to psychological factors. John Lukacs writes " . . . the important thing is not the cards but the betting, not the value of the player's hand, but the player's psychology, as one gets to know the habits, the quirks, the tendencies, the strengths and weaknesses."

Lukacs writes in an article entitled "Poker and American Life," that, "poker can be played only with people and unlike chess or even bridge, never against an IBM machine."

LUKACS BELIEVES poker to be the game closest to the Western conception of life, where life and thought are recongnized as intimately combined, where free will prevails over philosophies of fate or chance, where at least in the short run the important thing is not what happens, but what people think happens."

Poker has added enrichment to the literature of America and indeed, the world.

There's John Phillip Quinn's story of a janitor of a bank who came to work to find three tired men huddled on the steps of the building, one of them clutching a sealed envelope. When the cashier arrived, the man with the package asked for a loan of $5,000 with five cards as security. Unmoved, the cashier said in freezing tones, "This bank does not lend on cards."

At that moment the bank president came in sight and was recognized and shown the cards. Thereupon he seized several bags of money and went off with the men. He soon came back with the principle of the loan and $500 interest — "You might as well understand," he shouted at the cashier, "that four kings, with an ace for a confidence card, is good in this institution for our entire assets."

ONE OF THE UNFORGETTABLE scenes from James Jones' "From Here to Eternity," tells of a poker game that see a man suffer from the immemorial plague of gamblers: he doesn't know when to quit.

This story and others may be found in "The Fireside Book of Cars," which is an anthology containing fiction, humor, poetry, cartoons, news reports, paintings, and bits of advice.

A chapter about poker may be found in "Play the Devil." Here Henry Chafetz writes "Americans lose between twenty and thirty billion dollars a year in bets, lotteries and games of chance. We (Americans) gamble for money, and we gamble for the hell of it. . . . Neither moral censure nor legislation has ever dampened the American passion for gambling. Gambling has run through our history since the first settlers staked their claims in the New World and took the land away from the Indians, who were avid gamblers."

Roger Tilley's "Playing Cards" is a beautiful book showing the designs of playing cards from ancient times to the present. Pictures of cards from the discovery of paper in ancient China to the present day are included in many full color plates.

True, It Was Shorter, But . . .

SOME FOLKS Take short cuts and fare none the worse for it. But the owner of this car, who literally fell asleep on the job, and had little opportunity to take the proper thoroughfares into the Daly City shopping center below. Driver escaped with cuts, bruises and elbow injuries. (Post Photo)

Written Contracts

Question: A salesman promised me verbally that the company he represented would do certain things in connection with my written contract for the purchase from him of services and materials. The company so far has refused to honor these promises. Doesn't a company have to stand back of its salesmen?

Answer: If verbal promises by a salesman are considered by the purchaser to be important, they should be included in writing in the contract. Verbal promises are only worth the paper they are written on.

Question: Four magazine salesmen recently visited my office, and in the process of trying to sell me subscriptions, claimed to be endorsed by the Better Business Bureau. Does the Bureau endorse such salesmen?

Answer: The Bureau does not endorse any product, service, or company and claims of this sort should be disregarded.

Question: What is the difference between "Danish" and "Danish Modern" furniture and "Danish Style"?

Answer: (1) "Danish," "Danish Modern" and like terms should be used only to describe furniture produced entirely within the Kingdom of Denmark. (2) "Danish designed" and like terms should be used only as to furniture entirely designed or styled within the Kingdom of Denmark. (3) "Danish Style," "In the Danish manner," "after the Danish style" and like terms may be used to describe furniture manufactured other than in the Kingdom of Denmark provided such furniture has the characteristics of Danish design as understood by the general public.

Question: I have felt on several occasions that a cord of wood received did not always measure out accurately to meet the right dimensions. Would you please tell me how I can tell whether I am being gyped or not?

Answer: Always in the fall and winter the Bureau receives some complaints from homeowners about shortages they feel exist in their deliveries. The dictionary definition of a cord is: "A measure for wood equaling a pile 4x4x8, or 128 cubic feet." Cord cut for fireplace use, then is equal to two piles, or ricks, each eight feet long, four feet high and two feet wide.

If you still think the cord to be short, ask the deliverer to stack the wood. Measure it for a total of 128 cubic feet before paying the bill.

Tax Escapism

Not everyone can follow the lead of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ball of Morgan Creek, N. J., in escaping high property tax on homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball, described as tired of the escalating tax on their home (from $76 to $500 in 16 years), moved to a second-hand cabin cruiser, where docking fees and boat mortgage are only $300 a year.

For most taxpayers, unfortunately, a landlocked existence, high taxes and all, must remain a way of life. Otherwise the waterways would be as crowded as any suburban subdivision and probably as highly taxed.

But the hegira of Mr. and Mrs. Ball does serve to dramatize the plight of the home owner. Not that it will soften the heart of the tax assessor, but it helps to know that one couple has been able to realize everyone's dream and escape his clutches.

Many-Sided, Sun-Warmed Carmel Valley Picturesque

A SPECIAL 'SEE' TRIP

THE CHAPARRAL-CLAD Santa Lucia Mountains hem in this lovely valley through which the Carmel River flows. Farms, orchards, pastureland, picturesque estates and ranch homes lie in the sun-warmed valley where fog is seldom seen although the coast may be cloaked in the white fluff.

A good starting point for a tour of the valley is Mission San Carlos Borromeo del Rio Carmelo, Carmel Mission, which was founded in 1770 in Monterey but moved a year later by its founder, Junipero Serra, to its present site overlooking the Carmel River. Serra is buried here and a beautiful sarcophagus cut from California marble, with a bronze effigy of Serra, and figures of three kneeling and mourning padres—the work of Jo Mora—are in the memorial mortuary chapel near the entrance to the church.

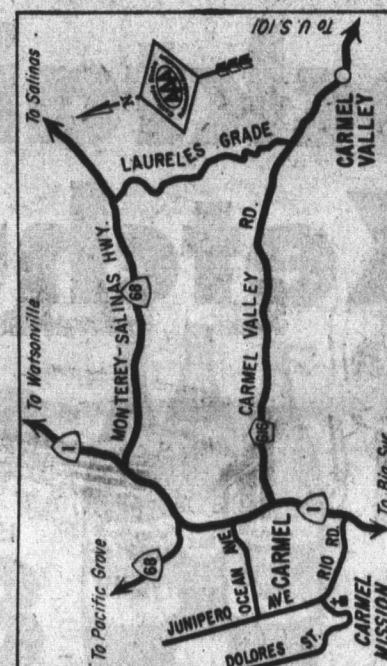

The church is distinctive among the Franciscan establishments in its architecture: the massive south tower with its outside stairway and its Saracenic dome is exceptional. Noteworthy, too, is the star window in the gable.

As you look eastward through the valley, the mountains pile up one behind the other, a purple haze gathered in their hollows, a calling card urging you on to discover their treasures.

About six miles east from the valley entrance is the Carmel Valley Begonia Gardens which always welcome visitors. Peak blooming season for the flowers is mid-August through early September.

A FORMER SHOWPLACE of the Golden State awaits the traveler if he takes a narrow road on the right about two-and-a-half miles from the valley entrance that twists and climbs past a redwood grove and eventually leads to the 22,000-acre Oppenheimer Ranch, the old Rancho San Carlos. Although the property is private, you can get a good view of the 57-room white hacienda built in 1923 by George Gordon Moore. At one time this gigantic ranch had its own polo field, private airstrip, racetrack and game refuge.

Another side trip off the Carmel Valley Road is out Robinson Canyon Road which crosses the river and runs past pear orchards, cool wooded canyons and redwoods. The old oaks along the route are covered with moss and the fence posts with lichen. About 10 miles in is a meadow with the ruins of four buildings. This is an old goat ranch where author Robert Louis Stevenson supposedly found shelter during one of his epic hikes through this country.

If you're looking for a panoramic view of the valley from the north side, take Ford Road which climbs gradually past a number of homes, meadows of tall grass and wildflowers. Looking downward, you can follow the course of the Carmel River by the willows and green sycamores.

Carmel Valley Village, about 12 miles in, is the business and social center of this highly sophisticated rural community and here you'll find tempting shopping and also a good place to stop for a bite to eat and drink before continuing your trip.

EAST OF CARMEL Valley Village the Carmel River turns south and becomes impounded behind San Clemente Dam (built in 1921). East of the river's southward turn is the intersection of Cachagua Road which fringes the Tulareitos Ridge. Sycamores and oaks crowd the valleys and hillsides with many deer making this their home. If you travel here in autumn, you can well imagine it as New England with its yellow maple leaves and flaming poison oak.

Cachagua returns to the Carmel Valley Road (now Tulareitos Road) and you can either return to Carmel or continue east to Greenfield and U.S. 101.

And He Soared Through the Air

FRANKLY, all of us cringed a bit when we saw this Abe Lincoln School "Spring Festival" picture. It seems perfectly reasonable that the three youngsters on the mat were doing likewise . . . and thanking their lucky stars the boy in the air isn't any bigger. (Post Photo)

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Lew Lehr's Paintings Cause for Comment

Lew Lehr is happy that many of the regular diners at Lew Lehr's Steak House in San Francisco's Marina compliment him on his new decor and the many oil paintings by famous artists which adorn the walls. . . Vern Coenberg, "trail boss" of the Black Angus Chuck Wagon spread, has captured the "old West" in murals which have been painted on the walls throughout the dining rooms. After a busy day, Vern often relaxes by letting his imagination run to fly casting in one of the painted streams. But when he comes prepared with a net and reel, that's carrying a day dream too far. . . Nick Gust, Mayor of Pacifica and owner of Nick's and The Moonraker restaurants at Rockaway Beach, is a native of Daly City, who started in the restaurant business in 1948 after his discharge from the Air Force. It was then that he took over Nick's from his father, remodeled it and added the now famous beach motel. . . South San Francisco's Holiday Inn offers dining a la Las Vegas in the Crown Room. Luxurious decor and gourmet dining, plus the versatile "88ing" of Gary Long.

The Steak Au Poivre served at Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco is popular with Peninsula's spending the eve in the "big city." This dish is flavored with mild Cheddar cheese and served en flambe at your table.

Ringsiders Are Amazed At Lucian's High C
With a booming baritone voice reminiscent of the late Miss Tucker, Lucian, the "Male Sophie Tucker" of Finocchio's, amazes the ringsiders by shifting into high C range. And no wonder—he once was a boy soprano with a religious choir in New York City. Lucian has been one of the big drawing cards ever since joining Finocchio's stable of female impersonators five years ago. . . If you haven't made the scene at the VIP Lounge on Baldwin Avenue, you're missing one of the most far out groups in the Bay Area. The Sebastian Three (Chic Meiss piano; Hal Trott, drums, and Jeff Crossley on bass) "blast off" to set you in orbit Friday and Saturday from 9 p.m. . . Big Julie Greene and Diana Deems of the Condo in North Beach recently gave Warner Brothers-Seven Arts a helping hand when they publicized the new release, "The Big Bounce." And it was some helping hand. . . Jerry Morris is so excited about his new production at The Peppermint Tree, "Less Top to Bottom '69," that he wants to take it to New York City for try-outs on Broadway.

Lucian

Frank and Fannie Torres, owners of Torres restaurant and hotel at Montara on the Coast Highway, report that the weather has been beautiful over their way. Diners from all over the Bay Area are flocking here to try the many Peruvian specialties of the house. . . Businessmen of the Bay Area: take advantage of the "Men Only" luncheon served in the Mediterranean Room at Bertolucci's for your next business meeting. Call Teddy, the maitre'd, for information and reservations. . . Some restaurants will not be open on Memorial Day (Friday, May 30), but the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto will be open from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. In addition to selected beef dishes and seafood, the restaurant receives raves for its decor.

A Luau Meal Adds Interest and Flair to Your Warm Weather Dining

For an unusual and delicious warm-weather dinner party, take a cue from the Hawaiians and serve a meal with a Luau flair.

For a Luau-inspired meal that's easy and interesting, take advantage of the wide variety of canned Chinese foods now available in your market. You'll find they cut preparation time and add an exotic flavor.

Hula Ham with Fried Rice Stuffing makes a savory main course dish serving 10 to 12 guests. Have the butcher remove the ham bone, and fill the cavity with spicy fried rice spiced with bits of pineapple and chopped onion, and flavored with a bottled Hawaiian Barbecue Sauce. If the bottled sauce is not available in your neighborhood, an alternate sauce using all-purpose soy sauce is a fine substitute. If you prefer to use a canned ham, the fried rice can be served as a side-dish rather than a stuffing. The canned ham, basted with sauce as it cooks, develops an excellent flavor, too. Either way, the ham looks pretty garnished with orange slices and parsley.

If you prefer beef, substitute Stir-Fried Sweet and Sour Beef as your main course. The use of a divider-pak can of mushroom chow mein and the quick "stir-fry" Chinese cooking method make this tempting island dish a snap to prepare. Or, serve the beef dish in addition to the ham to make your meal into a really splendid Luau feast.

Accompany the main course with an eye-appealing Crunchy Luau Salad with Soy Sauce Dressing. This colorful vegetable salad gets its unusual flavor and texture from the crisp water chestnuts and chow mein noodles among its ingredients.

Fruit punch is a key part of every Luau. As your beverage, served canned or frozen punch made from fruits of the Hawaiian Islands such as passionfruit, apricots and guavas. Served plain or tea-flavored, its pretty color will add excitement to your meal.

Wind up your Luau party with Mai-Tai Pie, created by home economists in the Chun King Kitchens. The Mai-Tai is a favorite island drink made with pineapple juice and rum. Your pie uses crushed pineapple and light rum or rum extract, and features crust made with sweetened chow mein noodles and coconut.

If you have a porch or patio, serve your Luau dinner there. It will lend a relaxed atmosphere to the meal, and traditionally, Hawaiian Luau are casual and informal. Aloha!

HULA HAM WITH FRIED RICE STUFFING
1 smoked whole ham (7 to 8 lbs.), boned by butcher
1 can (13.5 oz.) meatless fried rice or fried rice with pork
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup canned pineapple tidbits, drained
Orange slices and parsley for garnish

Sauce:
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup bottled Hawaiian Barbecue Sauce
2 teaspoons hot mustard

Alternate Sauce:
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup all-purpose soy sauce
1 clove garlic, mashed
2 teaspoons hot mustard
1/2 cup catsup
2 tablespoons light molasses

Have butcher remove bone from ham, leaving ham in one piece so the bone cavity can be stuffed.

Break up rice with fork; mix in onion and pineapple. Stir sauce ingredients together, choosing one of the two sauces listed above. Add sauce to rice; if using alternate sauce, use 1/4 cup of sauce with the rice and reserve the rest for basting the ham.

Pack rice mixture lightly into cavity of ham. Tie ham with heavy string to prevent rice stuffing from falling out during baking. Place stuffed ham in foil-lined roasting pan and bake in preheated 325-degree F. oven for 15 minutes per pound, until hot throughout. As ham bakes, baste it frequently with additional Hawaiian Barbecue Sauce or with reserved portion of alternate sauce. Serve garnished with orange slices and parsley sprigs.

If preferred, a canned ham may be heated and served with the fried rice mixture used as a side-dish rather than a stuffing. Simply follow the same directions for preparing the rice, and heat in greased baking dish for about 30 minutes as the ham bakes. Baste canned ham with sauce as it cooks, as previously described.

Makes 10 to 12 generous servings.

CRUNCHY LUU SALAD
1 head iceberg lettuce
1 head bibb lettuce
2 cucumbers, unpeeled and sliced
1 cup sliced radishes
1 cup sliced carrots
1 cup sliced celery hearts or stalks
1/2 cup chopped green onions or scallions
2 cups halved cherry tomatoes

2 cans (5 oz. each) water chestnuts, sliced
1 can (3 oz.) chow mein noodles

Wash and break lettuce into small pieces. In a large bowl, place all vegetables and water chestnuts; toss well. Just before serving, add chow mein noodles and mix well. Serve with Soy Sauce Dressing or your own favorite dressing.

Makes about 10 to 12 servings.

SOY SAUCE DRESSING
1/2 cup olive oil
1 cup tarragon vinegar
1 cup Japanese style soy sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard

2 teaspoons parsley
2 teaspoons chervil
Combine all ingredients and blend well.

Makes 2 cups of dressing.

STIR-FRIED SWEET AND SOUR BEEF

1 pound top round steak, cut in thin strips
1-third cup bottled teriyaki sauce or soy sauce
1/2 cup vinegar

1 can (8 oz.) pineapple tidbits

2 tablespoons cooking oil

1 clove garlic, crushed

1/2 teaspoon salt

2 tablespoons sherry, optional

1 divider-pak can (2 lb., 11 oz.) mushroom chow mein

Steak should be cut into strips about one-third-inch thick. Place strips in bowl and pour sauce and vinegar over them; stir to moisten all the meat well. Refrigerate meat in marinade 2 to 3 hours. Remove steak from sauce and drain on paper towels.

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Put pineapple juice in saucepan and boil over direct heat until volume is reduced in half.

Put cooking oil in large frying pan over high heat; add crushed garlic and salt. When oil is very hot, drop in pieces of marinated steak and fry about 5 minutes, stirring continuously to make sure all meat browns evenly. Stir in sherry and pineapple juice.

Rinse and drain divider-pak vegetables from bottom can of mushroom chow mein; stir into steak mixture. Stir in divider-pak sauce from top can of chow mein and heat until bubbly. Serve immediately, over plain or fried rice, if desired.

Makes about six servings.

MAI TAI PIE

CRUST:
1 can (5 oz.) chow mein noodles
1-3 cup melted butter

1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup flaked coconut

FILLING:
1 package (4 oz.) lemon pie filling
2 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 cup fresh or frozen orange juice
1 cup water
1-3 cup light rum-x
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
x—if preferred, 1 teaspoon rum flavoring and an extra one-third cup orange juice can be substituted for light rum.

TOPPING:
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
4 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup flaked coconut

Crush noodles slightly; combine noodles with melted butter, sugar, orange rind and coconut. Mix well. Press noodle mixture into a greased 10-inch pie pan. Bake in hot preheated 425-degree F. oven for 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven and cool.

Combine pudding powder, sugar and egg yolks in saucepan. Add orange juice and water gradually until pudding and sugar are dissolved. Cook over medium heat, stirring, until filling becomes very thick. Remove from heat and stir in rum and crushed pineapple. Pour into cooled noodle crust.

Whip egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Beat in sugar gradually, being careful not to overbeat. Pipe meringue lightly on pie filling. Sprinkle coconut over meringue. Brown in preheated moderate 375-degree F. oven for 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Chill pie before serving.

Makes one 10-inch pie.

A San Francisco Young Woman's Borsch Turns Out a Prize Winner

When San Francisco's Mrs. Elaine Langlais submitted her recipe for Great Russian Borsch, she was Miss Elaine McCrea. Many nice things have happened to Miss McCrea since January when she was married. One of the most exciting was the winning of the thousand dollar prize for the best recipe using Regina Cooking Burgundy.

Twenty-one-year-old Mrs. Langlais started to learn to cook about five years ago and became interested in recipes from her father's family. Inasmuch as she is of Russian descent, naturally the subject of borsch came up. She was informed that there were three ingredients necessary for borsch, onions, cabbage and beets — plus anything else you wanted to throw in. She very creatively "threw in" a combination of ingredients which makes a superb soup.

Mrs. Langlais is a native Californian who was born in San Francisco. She is a part-time legal secretary but at the present time is finishing college and majoring in French and Russian. Her husband also cooks, but according to Mrs. Langlais "he really leaves most of it up to me."

It should be served hot with slices of dark-colored European bread and cheese as an accompaniment. Not only is it delicious but it improves with reheating.

GREAT RUSSIAN BORSCH
2 medium yellow onions, chopped
5 sliced fresh mushrooms
½ cup butter or margarine
½ pound ground beef, crumbled into kettle
3 quarts beef stock (may be made by dissolving 15 cubes of bouillon in 3 quarts of water)

1 crushed bay leaf
¾ cup cooking burgundy
¼ teaspoon chervil
2 teaspoons thyme
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon garlic salt
Dash Worcestershire sauce
5 medium beets, grated
One-third medium head cabbage, shredded
2 stalks celery, chopped (including leaves)
2 carrots, sliced
¼ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup tomato catsup
Sour cream

Saute the onions, mushrooms and ground beef until browned in the butter in a large 4½-5 quart Dutch oven or kettle. When browned add the beef stock, bay leaf, cooking burgundy, chervil, thyme, pepper, garlic salt and Worcestershire sauce. Cover the kettle and bring broth to a rolling boil.

Add beets, cabbage, celery and carrots. Bring contents of kettle to a boil again and boil for 15 minutes, then reduce heat and let simmer for 15 more minutes. Remove from heat and add corn syrup and catsup, stirring to mix well. Serve hot, garnished with sour cream and sprinkled with a bit of thyme or chervil.

Tender, fresh young spinach has come a long way since the days of Popeye. It is now the "in" green for use in contemporary salads. Mrs. R. M. Fields of Santa Ana, California, created a most unusual dressing which won a top prize in the recipe contest. A bit of curry powder and a dressing of crumbled bacon and hard cooked eggs make this spinach salad something to remember.

FRESH SPINACH SALAD
Two-thirds cup salad oil

¼ cup wine vinegar with garlic
2 tablespoons cooking sauerkraut
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon saffron pepper
1 bunch fresh, young spinach
5 slices bacon
2 hard cooked eggs, finely chopped

Combine first nine ingredients in a jar. Shake ingredients until well mixed. Wash spinach thoroughly. Dry in towel and refrigerate in towel. Fry the bacon until crisp and crumble for topping. Tear the spinach into bite-size pieces and arrange in individual salad dishes or a large bowl. Pour the dressing and garnish with the crisp crumbled bacon and chopped egg.

Prize winner Mrs. Janet Johnson of Rockford, Illinois, takes porch chops out of the everyday class and makes them tasty and elegant. Top prize winner in the red wine vinegar contest, Mrs. Johnson dolls up the pork chops in a very colorful, tasty but easy manner.

DIAMOND HEAD PORK CHOPS

6 six-ounce pork chops
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup red wine vinegar
2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup pineapple juice
¼ cup honey
2 teaspoons dry mustard
6 whole cloves
12 whole coriander seeds, crushed
6 slices fresh lime
6 maraschino cherries

Brown the chops in the butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in a baking pan, about 9x13. Combine vinegar, sugar, pineapple juice, honey, mustard, cloves and coriander seeds. Ladle 3 tablespoons mixture over each chop. Bake chops at 350 degrees F. for 50 minutes, basting every 15 minutes with sauce. Place one slice of lime topped with one cherry on each chop and return to oven for 10 minutes, basting with remaining sauce. Serve with curried rice. Serves six.

The familiar bright red radish takes on a totally new look and flavor when prepared by prize winner Mrs. David B. Sommer of Minneapolis. Mrs. Sommer's Bleached Blonde Radishes are totally unique and will be a complete surprise to both your family and guests. The flavor changes almost completely when radishes are cooked, losing their hot quality and becoming more on the sweet side. The champagne stock vinegar marinade adds the piquant flavor which will make these radishes a favorite in your menus. This recipe is ideal as a standby, because the longer the marinade in your refrigerator the more delightful they become. They complement meat dishes but are equally at home as hors d'oeuvres or in salads.

BLEACHED BLONDE RADISHES

2 bunches red radishes, washed and trimmed
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups water
One-third cup champagne stock vinegar
¼ cup olive oil
¼ cup cold water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper

Trim roots and tops from radishes. Boil in the ¼-teaspoon salt and 2 cups water until they lose color, and become pink instead of red. Do not boil for more than 10 minutes. Drain and cool. Mix together champagne stock wine vinegar, olive oil, cold water, salt, and white pepper. Marinate radishes in this at least overnight. They gain added flavor with storage in the refrigerator.

Sirloin Tip Versatile In Preparation

"Aren't there two ways of preparing the cut called beef sirloin tip roast?" queries a homemaker.

Yes, there are. It depends upon quality as well as preference of the homemaker, says a meat expert. If the cut is of high quality, it can be prepared by roasting, that is, cooking on a rack in a shallow, open pan.

When you're uncertain about the quality, it's best to make a pot-roast out of it. That means braising which is cooking by moist heat. Here are directions for this method, using intriguing spicing.

BEST YET POT-ROAST

4 to 5-pound beef sirloin tip pot-roast
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon basil
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon cumin
1 cup water

Brown pot-roast on all sides in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt, pepper, basil, oregano, rosemary, thyme, cumin and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 3 to 3½ hours or until tender. Thicken cooking liquid for gravy, if desired. Serves 8 to 10 servings.

Memorial Day Service at Olivet

The public is invited to the Memorial Day ceremonies to be held for the first time at the new Military Terrace of Olivet Memorial Park in Colma on Friday, May 30 at 11:15 a.m.

Since February of this year at the request of a family or organization, the name of a deceased veteran, regardless of the date of his death or where he may be interred, has been displayed at the base of the flagpole each day, then on each Sunday a flag lowering ceremony is held.

Under the direction of the United States Marine Corps a uniformed detachment from Treasure Island will participate in the ceremonies, as well as members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Boy Scouts of America.

The principal address, "Lest We Forget," will be delivered by C. Lyn Fox, Major General, U.S. Army, retired, and former commanding general of the Ninety-first Division Reserve. He was city editor of the San Francisco Chronicle and former political editor of the Call-Bulletin newspapers; also a past president of the California Public Utilities Commission, a past post commander of the American Legion, and an author.

The presiding officer will be Joseph J. Pape, past commander of California Post 234, American Legion. The remarks of welcome will be made by W. H. Honeywell, councilman of the city of Colma and a navy veteran; the opening and closing prayers will be offered by Charles, B. Oliveira, State Chaplain of the Military Order of the Purple Heart; the Pledge of Allegiance will be led by John B. Puig, III, State Chaplain of the Sons of the American Legion; and General John A. Logan's General Order No. 11 which originated Memorial Day will be read by Rene F. Brulez, quartermaster of Old Glory Post 2044, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

An Air Force Art Exhibit In Daly City

An art exhibition, often described as "intriguing" and "pleasantly different" will be on display in Daly City from May 27-31.

A selection of more than 40 original works of art, illustrating the U.S. Air Force from World War I, when it was part of the Army, to the present day scenes of contemporary aerospace age activities, will be presented in Serramonte Shopping Center Mall.

The paintings shown in the display are a portion of the U.S. Air Force Art Collection which exceeds 2,500 in number. Its purpose is to portray the courageous and challenging role American airmen have played in our nation's history, an Air Force spokesman noted.

Paintings in the collection depict a panorama of activities, including fighter pilots on alert in Japan, airmen undergoing tropical survival training in Panama, an aerial refueling mission over England, interceptors training over the Arctic, and scenes from Operation Chocolate Drop — the helping hand of the Berlin Airlift.

These works fall into two categories, historical and contemporary. The historical works were donated from many different sources and record the early days of aviation and the infancy of American airpower.

Six Suspects Held In R.C. Holdup

Six young suspects in a Redwood City holdup were finally taken into custody in San Bruno on Monday after police in two other communities had stopped and then released them.

One policeman termed "a real snafu" the series of circumstances which resulted in the suspects twice being released before re-alerted Burlingame and Millbrae patrol cars stopped the suspect car on Bayshore Freeway at the San Bruno overpass about 2 a.m. It all started at 12:45 a.m. in Redwood City when William R. McLachlan, 49, of 935 Madison Avenue, stepped out of the rear door of the Redwood Inn, 727 El Camino Real, in response to a request by a young woman who had entered to ask someone to show her directions to nearby Winslow Street.

McLachlan told Policemen Donald G. Wyman and Jimmie Farmer that when he stepped into the alley a young man came around the corner of the building with sawed-off shotgun and demanded his wallet. After taking the wallet containing $17 and credit cards, the robber ordered McLachlan to start running. As he ran, McLachlan related, a Volkswagen containing several persons passed him.

An anonymous witness from a nearby apartment building told the officers that the car was dark blue and had flowers painted on the side.

In San Carlos, Reserve Policeman James Cost, heading home in his personal car shortly after hearing the broadcast of the description of the holdup vehicle pull out of a service station in the 1000 block of El Camino Real. He started following the car, which finally pulled to the curb and stopped on Laurel Street near Hull Drive.

A man got out of the car and approached his vehicle, Cost said. Not knowing if the man was armed, Cost, who was in civilian clothes, stepped from his car with his gun drawn, identified himself and ordered the man to return to the other vehicle and keep his hands in sight. When the five other persons in the other car also got out, Cost began honking the horn of his vehicle until a nearby resident appeared. Cost told him to call police.

Sgt. Ed Whitney and Officer Jack Price responded. Whitney said a search of the car turned up six cans of motor oil, but nothing of a suspicious nature.

Whitney learned at his roadblock station (a service station) that a similar car had been in the station and six cans of oil were missing. He broadcast an alarm; the vehicle was stopped, the suspects returned the oil and were let go. The alarm was broadcast after stolen credit cards were found where the vehicle was stopped. The occupants were picked up in San Bruno. Parts of a sawed-off shotgun were found in and about the car; it was loaded.

Arrested and booked at county jail were Ky Lavonne Flack, 18, East Palo Alto; Darrell Jay Oliver, 19, Menlo Park; Richard Ray William, 18, Menlo Park; and three minors, two girls 16 and 17 and a boy, aged 17.

Is S.F.'s Airport Second to Oakland

Whether San Francisco International Airport might become second to Oakland International in 10 more years, is a concern of San Francisco's Supervisors today.

The supervisors were startled this weekend when Bay Area Rapid Transit District's general manager, B. R. Stokes, advised them that as soon as the transit lines are completed, people will be able to get to Oakland's airport in 22 minutes from downtown San Francisco.

This would be rush-hour time, he said.

Today, it takes at least that time to drive to the San Francisco airport from downtown San Francisco, during the rare periods when there is no traffic. Rush-hour traffic jams may extend the downtown-to-airport jaunt to as much as one hour.

Stokes told the Board of Supervisors that BARTD's transit surveys indicate that Oakland International may become the major regional airport in the Bay Area, by 1980, merely because of better ground traffic access.

BARTD's system will not link directly to San Francisco Airport, because San Mateo County voters refused to take part in what has become at least partly a financial disaster.

There have been many suggestions for airport transit link-ups, but without San Mateo County's being a part of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, little is expected to come of these suggestions.

As a matter of fact, Stokes said, BARTD does not have a tie-in directly to Oakland International, either. What it does have is a south-bay line, and a station at Oakland Coliseum, only 3 1/2 miles from the Oakland airport.

A short link, he said, could easily provide service to air travelers that San Francisco Airport could not match.

Supervisor Roger Boas and two other members of the San Francisco board took off today on a three-city tour to see what means other communities have adopted for getting passengers from downtown to the airport.

Boas said his committee will study an air-bus system in Pittsburgh and rapid transit rail system in Cleveland and a monorail in Seattle.

With San Francisco International Airport currently serving nearly 15,000,000 passengers per year and with approximately 20 per cent of them coming from San Francisco any means of transit is likely to develop into a major project.

Hundreds of experts in aviation have been plugging for air-bus service for years but the very idea of air bus service to move 1,000,000 to 3,000,000 passengers per year through the air between downtown San Francisco and the airport they admit is staggering.

Any ground-line would run into right-of-way problems, except that San Francisco still holds much of its old "car 40" right-of-way down the mid-Peninsula.

Looping from Daly City's Mission Street across Colma and South San Francisco the right-of-way parallels Southern Pacific's railroad tracks through San Bruno, Millbrae, and Burlingame.

Youth, 17, Is Arrested

A 17-year-old Daly City youth was arrested and sent to Hillcrest by Daly City police Friday on charges that he possessed dangerous drugs.

The youth, police said, was seen passing a box of pills to a high school girl, who earlier had been rushed to Mary's Help Hospital after taking Seconal and drinking alcohol.

The boy, police said, had Seconal capsules in his possession.

Later the same day, another student was taken to Mary's Help Hospital after being discovered under the influence of a narcotic.

Postal Rate Symposium In San Bruno

A Postal Rate Symposium will be held the afternoon of June 14 in San Bruno Library Auditorium, in conjunction with an all-day postal employees workshop, the Peninsula Council of Postal Employees announced today.

Theme of the day-long program will be "Better Mail Service Through Realistic Postal Pay" and a determined effort will be made to enlist the support of the general public for the union's proposed 16 per cent pay increase, according to the Council's president, Dick Griffith.

"There is a simplistic wage-price spiral association in the public mind of President Nixon's recommended 16.6 per cent increase in the first-class letter rate with the Administration's proposed 4 per cent boost in postal salaries," said Griffith.

"What is often forgotten is that the Post Office Department performs hundreds of functions for other government departments — ranging from the storing and issuing of burial flags for the VA to collecting license fees and counting game birds for the Department of the Interior without budget credit. Not only that, the so-called 'postal deficit' could be wiped out and letter rates possibly reduced if some of the biggest mail service users were made to bear their full share of the cost."

He pointed out that the Department of Defense, one of the biggest government mailers, makes only token transfers on an annual basis for "Penalty" and "Postage and Fees Paid" privileges "while the Post Office Department is never compensated for the franking ride enjoyed by Congressmen, Senators and high government executives."

Another aspect of "below-cost postal service" which will be explored at the meeting is the "possibility of charging the HEW budget with losses on handling of educational material, magazine and newspapers since these mailings are now being subsidized in the interest of the aims of Secretary Finch's department," Griffith said.

"Some of us feel that it isn't fair to burden pensioners on fixed incomes, for instance, who do a lot of letter writing with all these extraneous costs — which should properly be a function of general government sources of income."

"We think if the public begins to understand these penny ante postal budget chimeras, reforms may be introduced permitting postal wage comparability without increase in postal rates."

The Council released the following tentative schedule for the all-day workshop:

10 a.m.—Business meeting, P.C.P.E.
11 a.m.—Report on 1970 contract prospects.
11:30 a.m.—Film on grievance procedures.
1:30 p.m.—Report of delegates to Washington D.C. legislative conference.
3 p.m.—Postal Rate Symposium.

Students Vie Skills In Business Meet

Westmoor's First Intra-district Business Competition, held recently gave evidence of the skills of high school students preparing to enter business fields.

Participants from Westmoor, Terra Nova, Serramonte, Oceana, and Jefferson competed in the areas of business machines, beginning shorthand, advanced shorthand, brief forms, beginning typing, advanced typing, vocabulary, and spelling.

Elaine Makras (Westmoor) captured first place in the business machines competition, with Lorraine Dosse (Terra Nova), and Charlene Peng (Westmoor) taking second and third place, respectively.

Beginning shorthand ended in three ties. For first place Laura Hernandez (Oceana), and Lynette Pierce (Westmoor) tied. Second place winners, Glenna Pierce (Terra Nova) and Maureen Wilson (Westmoor) had the same percentage of accuracy. Judy Buffington (Terra Nova), and Elaine Makras, Gerry Marquez, Joyce McMenomy, and Donna Nyquist (all from Westmoor) composed a four-way tie for third place.

Alexandria Vouchilas (Westmoor) was awarded first place in advanced shorthand, with Barbara Scopinich (Terra Nova) taking second.

Maureen Wilson, Lauren Behlow, and Gerry Marquez, all Westmoorites, attained first, second, and third place in the brief form competition.

Beginning typing found Nina Akin (Terra Nova) capturing first place, Susie Fulwider (Oceana) and Sandy Rayner (Terra Nova) tying for second place, and Jeanie Olsen (Westmoor) gaining third place.

Linda Katuna and Janice Pucetti, both Westmoor students, took first and second place, respectively in advanced typing. Third place was awarded to Glenna Pierce (Terra Nova).

Jeanie Olsen (Westmoor) took first place in vocabulary competition, with Donna Case (Westmoor) attaining second place, and Pat Reed (Terra Nova) receiving third place.

In the area of spelling, the three Westmoor students who took first, second, and third places were Alexandria Vouchilas, Maureen Wilson, and Charla Garden, respectively.

Along with Westmoor Business Club advisers, Mrs. Sharon Mahali, and Mrs. Connie Werner, many business organizations helped make the competition a success. Kelly Girl, Head's Business College, Pacific Telephone Company, College of San Mateo, Royal, Inc., and Western Girl each contributed 200 pamphlets apiece.

Another Doctor Opposes Jogging

... AND TO CONTINUE our vendetta on those fanatics who called us "sissy" several months ago when we had the audacity to question the total validity of jogging as a good-health panacea. You may remember we initiated our counterattack last week by quoting from Dr. Ludwig G. Lederer (medical director for American Airlines) that jogging probably does a lot of good, "if it doesn't kill you."

This installment we give you Dr. Paul D. White, an 83-year-old physician who has never jogged and doesn't intend to. At least that's what he said last week at the California Heart Association's annual meeting at the Jack Tar Hotel in San Francisco.

How has Dr. White stayed so healthy for so long? He walks a few miles every day (which he says is the best exercise of all), rides a bicycle on weekends, and has a proper diet.

Dr. White says that jogging can kill older people, especially those who have been lazing about for years and are then suddenly talked into jogging by some fanatic. (We call them fanatics. The doctor, having more class, did not.)

If people feel they MUST join jogging groups, says the doctor, they should first be given a thorough physical — with special emphasis on the condition of the heart — by a qualified physician.

How does that jog you?
"Classic": Of the highest quality or rank; having recognized and permanent value; of enduring interest and appeal.

That definition is out of Webster's Third New International Dictionary. We reprint it to remind one and all what classic really means. Which leads to our irritation of the week.

IRRITATION OF THE WEEK: Why are all golf tournaments nowadays, called "classics," even when they're not ... not of highest quality or rank, not having recognized permanent value, certainly not of enduring interest and appeal. But excuse our rhetorical questions. Let us just say that this proclivity to call all golf tournaments classics ranks with one of our all-time great — indeed CLASSIC — irritations, that of radio and television sportscasters calling every other athlete they see and every act they perform, "great." ("Considerable or remarkable in magnitude. ...")

Where do the superlatives stop? What do these purveyors of the cheap, grandiose ("Characterized by affectation of grandeur, by pretense and pomp ...") adjectives do when, indeed, a true "classic" or "great" hovers on the horizon? It's obvious. They'll make up a new language!

In the meanwhile, let us check our sports calendar here and see what's coming up ... ah, yes, there's the Colma Classic, the Brisbane Classic, the San Bruno Avenue Classic, the Frank LaPierre Classic Invitational, the ...

A source within the Oakland Athletic front office (which obviously won't be named or identified) says that things are so taut around there that people literally don't know from one day to the next when they say good-bye to each other for the evening, whether or not they'll ever be seeing their fellow workers again in that office. Seems Charley fires people and what else is new?

This is a sort of half an irritation. How often have you heard a fight announcer say or a fight report write, "Sluggo Smith is (or was) now fighting on instinct only."

That is a sort of redundancy, because all fighters, in the end, fight on instinct alone. True, for the most part, it's a learned, conditioned instinct, but do you really think that a fighter has time to say to himself, for instance, "Now, he drops his right shoulder when he throws his left so I'll counter with a left hook"? Of course he doesn't think about it! He acts on it, instinctively.

LOCAL NOTES:

The decision to call this year's North Peninsula League baseball championship a tie between Jefferson and Terra Nova rather than have a play-off can be argued pro and con from several philosophic viewpoints. Do you play it safe and be satisfied with a piece of the big apple? Do you gamble and take a chance on being just an also-ran for the opportunity of sitting on top of the heap all by yourself? etc.

From the practical standpoint, it might have been to Terra Nova's advantage to engage in a play-off. True, Jeff had beaten them twice in regular season play, but at season's end Terra Nova had the momentum, and Jeff, well, let's face it, Jeff had frittered away a lead.

Of course, it wasn't up to either team whether or not it wanted to play. It was the league's decision, and while we are not faulting the decision itself, we are questioning the rather absurd circumstance which caused the controversy. The league had NO prior plan set up to decide the eventual naming of a champion in the case of a tie.

In a relatively small league playing a relatively short season, ties aren't unusual, and we can't imagine any good excuse for such an oversight. There should have been no need for hurried meetings and possibly quick decisions and ill feelings.

We'd call the whole affair a case of bad management.

Bob Lualhati, former Jeff and Westmoor track coach and now head track and field man at San Francisco State, will also be an assistant Gator gridiron coach, handling the split-ends.

And former Crestmoor (San Bruno) star Ron Patterson, a 215-pound senior, is touted as possibly the Gators' top offensive tackle this year.

John Burgess and Bill Downing, of Terra Nova's co-championship nine, have received full scholarships from the University of San Francisco.

Burgess was the league's top pitcher, and threw one of the circuit's all-time masterpieces when he hurled a one-hitter against South San Francisco for 13 innings (a league record) late in the season, finally prevailing, 2-0, and keeping the Tigers in the pennant race. Burgess also hit well.

Downing was the smooth-fielding, hard-hitting shortstop who held the infield together. An all-league (he topped the NPL in scoring this past season) basketball player, he may also play that spot on the Hilltop.

Adult, Youth Tennis Play Set in S.S.F.

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department will offer both youth and adult beginning tennis classes at the new Orange Memorial Park Tennis Complex starting June 23.

Both free and fee classes will be scheduled. Fee classes will have a limit of ten students per instructor and the free classes, for South San Francisco residents only, will have a 20 student maximum per instructor. Fees for children at least eight years old and junior and senior high students are $3, while adults are $4.

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department anticipates increased local interest in tennis and recommends early registration. Those interested are encouraged to pre-register at the Recreation and Park Department main offices at Grand and Magnolia Avenues before June 17.

Two sessions, each nine hours in length with an intraclass tournament during the fourth week, will be offered. The first session will start June 23 and the second begins July 21.

Last minute registration may be made at the Orange Memorial Park Tennis Complex on Wednesday, June 18.

Third-Time Honor For Van Dillen

After an absence of two years, the Mid Peninsula League again came up with an All-MPL tennis team.

And heading this year's team, though barely making it, is Burlingame High School's Erik van Dillen, who is making his third appearance in as many years on the All-MPL team.

Van Dillen, who only played sporadically in MPL matches this season due to a heavy commitment of outside tournaments, barely gained enough votes to gain his third straight honor. The National Junior champion, who is soon to depart on a European tour, did not participate in the MPL finals.

Coach Jack Darragh's Panthers, runner-up for the 1969 conference title, paced the ten-man squad with four selections. Joining Van Dillen were Craig Zimmerman, Jim Kuenzli and Mike Parrinello.

Champion Mills placed two members on the MPL team, including MPL singles champion Sherman Spitz. Joining him was singles runner-up Glenn Davis of Mills.

Filling out the All-MPL team were Jim Alley of Capuchino, Brian Orancole of Aragon, Hal Bresin of San Mateo and Greg

No Playoff In Baseball For the NPL

There will be no play-off for the baseball championship in the North Peninsula League as both co-title-holders have decided to go their separate ways as far as post-season tournaments are concerned.

Jefferson and Terra Nova high schools both ended the league season with 9-3 records and for a while it appeared that both wanted to go to the Central Coast Sectional Play-offs, even though another tournament, the Redwood Tournament in San Rafael, was open to the league champs.

During the All-League selection meeting this week, Tom Martinez of Jeff and Al Figue of TN decided that Jefferson would go to San Rafael for the three-day affair and Terra Nova will compete June 3 against the semi-final winner of the Mid-Peninsula-WCAL contest.

Daly City Team Wins State Cup

The San Francisco Greek-Americans' soccer team, which consists of players from Westmoor High School of Daly City, captured the California State Cup by defeating the East Los Angeles Latin Americans' Club, 2-1, last Sunday at Stanford Stadium in Palo Alto before a crowd of 6000.

The first half started with both teams showing equal strength. But then, after 34 minutes of play, the Los Angeles goalkeeper miss-kicked the ball and Jaime Arevalo took the ball and headed toward the open goal, scoring to give the Greeks a 1-0 lead at half-time.

In the second half, the Los Angeles team tied the game after a mixup in front of the goal.

Later, Gus Souza gave an outstanding pass to Dimitrios Mandoulvanos, who eluded the Los Angeles goalkeeper.

The Greek-Americans' team will travel to Los Angeles Friday to meet the same team for qualifications for the National Cup.

The winner will play St. Louis in the semi-finals for the National Cup, the victor there advancing to New York for the finals.
